

COUNSELING PEOPLE WITH A PSYCHOLOGICAL DIAGNOSIS

Dr. Charles Hodges

Introduction

- A. This lecture should be taken in tandem with “Counseling People with a Medical Illness.”
 1. Clarifying the terms. For purposes of discussion, please assume the following definitions:
 - People with Medical Illness – someone who has been diagnosed with a proven/provable medical illness. The person’s pathology demonstrates the objective existence of specific disease in the body as a result of scientifically verifiable tests.
 - People with a Psychological Diagnosis – someone who has been labeled with a condition from the current version of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders. Unlike the people with a medical disease described above, these individuals have been given a psychiatric label based on their thoughts, emotions, and behavior. Generally, such persons are also on one or more psychotropic drugs.
 2. We are thankful for the privilege of ministering to persons in each category. However, to properly serve the people God brings to us, it is important to distinguish conditions that truly differ.
- B. We seek to approach this topic with compassion and humility. We desire to serve with compassion because we recognize that persons in both categories are fellow sufferers and should be treated with love, mercy, and grace. We desire to serve with humility because we recognize that there is much about the human body that we do not know.
- C. We support and celebrate objective science and pray that mankind’s understanding of how the body and soul interact will continue to develop and mature.
- D. We understand that good people differ on this subject.

Understand How a Psychological Diagnosis Is Made

- A. Many counselees who come for biblical counseling have already been given one or more psychological labels from another doctor, counselor, or through self-diagnosis (often through internet research).
- B. The current Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders may explain the criteria the physician or secular counselor used to make the diagnosis.
- C. Understand the difference between psychological diagnoses and medical diagnoses.
 1. Medical diagnoses.
 - There are definitely organic causes of a number of behavior problems.
 - Whenever a truly organic cause is found, it is given a medical disease diagnosis.
 - The diagnosis primarily describes the disease in the body rather than the symptoms.
 - To qualify as an illness, the condition in question must show damage to the body's physical tissue.
 2. Psychological diagnoses
 - Psychological diagnoses are made on the basis of the presenting psychological symptoms of the person, not the reason for the behavior. This point is conceded by the DSM itself – “a diagnosis does not carry any necessary implications regarding the causes of the individual's mental disorder or its associated impairments” (xxiii).
 - Various theories are proposed to account for the behavior.

- Contrast the differences between medical and psychological diagnoses this way:

Medicine: disease \Rightarrow Symptoms (behavior)

Psychological: theory \Leftarrow Symptoms (behavior)

- What makes this difference significant?

- D. During the data gathering phase, ask your counselee if he knows and understands the process that was used to determine his particular diagnosis.
- E. When the time is right, ask the counselee if [because the diagnosis was made on the basis of behavioral characteristics] he would be open to you substituting biblical terminology for secular words and categories.

Speak Appropriately with a Person about His Medication

- A. A sizeable percentage of our counselees are on psychotropic medication before they ever come to see us.
- B. As the data gathering process continues, ask the counselee about his medication history.
- C. Biblical counselors should never encourage a counselee to stop or reduce the frequency/amount of his drug therapy without the counselee first consulting the prescribing physician.
- D. Base your conversation on a factual understanding of chemical imbalance.
1. We should always be sympathetic with people who are simply trying to follow the advice of other experts in their lives.

2. We should always be kind and respectful even when interacting with people and theories with which we disagree.

3. We should always be patient with counselees as they try to process what they are hearing from us, especially if it is different than what they heard from a previous counselor or doctor.

4. Put the term “chemical imbalance” under the microscope.

- Very likely told he has a chemical imbalance

- A chemical imbalance is the term used for the theory that one of the chemicals is too high or too low in this synaptic junction.
- The imbalance is supposed to cause depression, anxiety, and other disorders.
- Chemical imbalance is only a theory since levels of neurotransmitters cannot be measured in neuronal synapses.
- There are chemical abnormalities in the body that affect behavior, but when they are present, the condition is no longer labeled a chemical imbalance but is given medical disease labels.
- Questions to ask when a physical problem (like chemical imbalance) is supposed to be producing emotional or behavior problems.
 - What tests were run to prove a physical problem is present?

- o How was it proven that the physical condition is the cause of the emotional or behavioral actions?
 - o How can it be proven that the recommended medication corrects the physical problem?
 - Your primary goal in counseling is not to get the person off medication.
- E. Be prepared to carefully respond if/when your counselee raises the question about reducing or going off his medication.
1. Learn the person's reason for wanting to stop.
 2. Explain to the counselee that there is much work to do before that question can be answered, and you will deal with it later.
 3. Only discuss stopping medication when you are convinced the person has replaced the use of medication with biblical principles.
 4. If you are convinced the counselee can come off the medication, send him to the doctor who started them.
 5. If that doctor refuses, then the counselee needs to get a second opinion.
 6. Continue counseling weekly for 3-4 weeks to check their progress after stopping medication.

Speak Biblically about the Heart and Life Issues that Should Always Be a Person's Primary Focus

- A. Recast the behavioral characteristics that were used to make the psychological diagnosis in the first place into biblical categories.
- B. Lead your counselee in analyzing the issues of the heart that produced or contributed to the resultant struggles.
- C. Bring the gospel to bear on his desires, thoughts, actions, words, and emotions.
- D. The biblical goal is to become more like Christ through the problems.
 - 1. To become more like Christ through daily problems means to handle or respond to those problems in a way that pleases Him.
 - 2. The Bible has promised great victory in difficult situations where change in feelings is not possible.

Books

Hodges, Charles, Good Mood Bad Mood: Help and Hope for Depression and Bipolar Disorder

Welch, Edward T., Blame It on the Brain.

Fitzpatrick, E., Hendrickson, L., Will Medicine Stop the Pain?

Audios

Hendrickson, Laura, “Will Medicine Stop the Pain?”

Peace, Martha. “Helping Women Come Safely Off Anti-Depressants (with their doctor’s help).”